ASSESSMENT OF THE NEED FOR COMMON EFFLUENT TREATMENT PLANTS

1. INTRODUCTION

Small scale industrial units (SSIs) have a very important role in industrial development in the country. Government actively promotes growth of SSI units to induce a balanced economic growth and distribute the benefits of industrial development in an equitable manner.

SSI units generally find it difficult to establish and operate individual effluent treatment plant due to their limited size and scale of operations. However, as SSI units are generally located as clusters in industrial areas/estates, the concept of Common Effluent Treatment Plant (CETP) for the entire effluent from the industrial area has been developed to achieve satisfactory treatment through their collective efforts. The monitoring and enforcement of a CETP as a single pollution source also become easier for regulatory agencies as compared to monitoring of large number of SSI units individually.

Central Government has several financial support schemes to promote establishment of CETPs. Ministry of Environment, Forests & Climate Change has a 'CETP Scheme' since 1991. This scheme promotes establishment of CETPs for treatment of effluents generated from SSI units located in clusters by providing a financial assistance in the form of subsidy on capital up to 75% (50% central subsidy plus 25% state subsidy). Central subsidy under this scheme was 25% till year 2011 which has been increased to 50% since 2012 under the modified 'CETP Scheme'. Some other ministries of Central Government also have similar financial support schemes, such as the Industrial Infrastructure Up-gradation Scheme (IIUS) of Department of Industrial Policy & Promotion, Ministry of Commerce and Industries, and the Textile Centres Infrastructure Development Scheme (TCIDS) of Ministry of Textiles. Information on CETPs support schemes are available at ministries' websites. Most of the CETPs for clusters of small-scale industry have been set up with the financial support provided under these schemes.

Based on the information that about 150 CETPs had been established in the country, Planning Commission expressed to MoEF in March 2010 that of about 900 industrial clusters, only 1/6 of the effluent generated is treated. The observation appeared to have been made on the assumption that CETPs are required and feasible in all remaining industrial areas/estates. Further, during a presentation regarding CETPs by MoEF before Planning Commission in Nov 2010, Member, Planning Commission desired that a study be carried out for assessment of the unmet need for CETPs in the country and to know the industrial clusters to be serviced by these CETPs. Accordingly this study was undertaken by Central Pollution Control Board for assessment of actual unmet need for common effluent treatment plants in the country.

2. METHODOLOGY

2.1 For an assessment of the unmet need for common effluent treatment plants in the country it was felt necessary to have an inventory of industrial areas/estates as well as assess the requirement and feasibility of CETP for each cluster so that a clear picture may emerge about CETPs' unmet need vis-à-vis total number of industrial areas/estates in the country. This was necessary because CETP may not be required and feasible in all cases for the following reasons:

- an industrial area might comprise of mostly non polluting industries
- an industrial area might comprise of mostly air polluting industries
- an industrial area might have very little combined flow and the contributing industries already have individual ETPs.
- an industrial area might have significant combined flow but the contributing industries already have individual ETPs therefore reluctant to propose any CETPs.

2.1 Objectives of the study

- 1) State wise documentation of general information on all industrial clusters in the country. (Developed either by Government agencies or traditionally/privately)
- 2) Collecting basic information about effluent generation, treatment and disposal and requirement/feasibility for CETP in respect of all clusters.
- 3) Assessment of unmet need for common effluent treatment plants in the country.

2.2 Study executing agencies

In view of the large amount of work involved, the study was carried out simultaneously in States and UTs in six Zones in association with different agencies:

Zone	Executing agency
Northern Zone: J&K, H. P., Punjab, Haryana, U.P., Uttaranchal, Chandigarh, Delhi	TERI-New Delhi
Central Zone: Rajasthan, M.P., Chhattisgarh	IIT-Kanpur
Southern Zone: A.P., Karnataka, Kerala, Tamil Nadu, Goa, Pondicherry, Lakshadweep	EPTRI- Hyderabad
Western Zone: Gujarat, Maharashtra, Goa, Daman Diu and D&NH	IIT-Mumbai
Eastern Zone: Bihar, Jharkhand, Orissa, West Bengal, Andaman & Nicobar Islands	CPCB Zonal Office - Kolkata
North-Eastern Zone: Ar. Pradesh, Assam, Manipur, Meghalaya, Mizoram, Nagaland, Tripura, Sikkim	CPCB Zonal Office - Shillong

2.3 Scope of Work for the study

- 1) The information will be collected on the prescribed format (Annexure-I).
- 2) The information will be basically collected from concerned offices of SPCBs and PCCs. Concerned offices of Industry Department and Industrial Infrastructure Development agency will also be contacted, if required.
- 3) All industrial clusters developed as industrial areas/estates by government agencies or privately and traditional industrial clusters in urban pockets or rural regions will be covered, irrespective of nature of industry i.e. clusters of non-polluting industries and only air polluting industries will also be covered.
- 4) Information/views of SPCBs and PCCs to be considered final especially in respect of effluent generation, treatment and disposal and requirement/feasibility for CETP.
- 5) Collected information will be documented district-wise in a state.

2.4 Approach suggested to the study executing agencies

- 1) The information for the study will have to be basically collected from concerned offices of State Pollution Control Boards and Pollution Control Committees of UTs.
- 2) Concerned offices of Industry Department and Industrial Infrastructure Development agency will also be contacted, if required.
- 3) In case of UTs and small States, such as Goa and Sikkim, or States with very less industrialization, such as J&K and Northern-Eastern States, contacting with offices of the concerned agencies at State/UT headquarter level may suffice to obtaining complete information. In other cases, contacting offices of the concerned agencies at Regional/ Divisional level will be needed to ensure that ground level information is not missed.

3. FINDINGS

- 3.1 It is found from this study that there are 2900 industrial areas/estates in the country. State wise break down of number of industrial areas is presented below:

The study has not suggested any common effluent treatment plant feasible in Bihar, Orissa, and North-Eastern states and Chandigarh and Daman at present.

- 3.5 The combined hydraulic capacity of the 141 common effluent treatment plants found feasible in this study is estimated as 741 MLD. The combined hydraulic capacity of the 193 existing common effluent treatment plants is 1474 MLD. A state-wise break down of these combined hydraulic capacities is presented on next page.
- 3.6 The basic assessment of the feasibility of more common effluent treatment plants carried out in this study will help state boards and other stakeholders to identify priority areas and plan new common effluent treatment plants. The final planning for any area will require further area-specific detailed study.

Relevant points regarding providing information:

1. Traditional clusters not having any name be indicated by a given name.
2. Geographical limits be defined by N&S latitudes and W&E longitudes.
3. Break-up of various type of industries in large and medium scale categories and number of industries in predominant groups of particular type of small scale industries such as textiles, pharmaceuticals, dye & dye intermediate, foundries, rice mills, potteries, glass industries etc. be indicated, as far as possible and the remaining number of industries may be indicated as Others/General .
4. Break-up of effluent generation from various type of industries in Large and Medium scale categories and from predominant groups of particular type of small scale industries and the remaining Others/General industries be indicated, as far as possible and . In case a few industrial units contribute to significant share of total effluent, such as a pulp & paper mill or a brewery, then information on such units should also be provided.
5. If there is an existing or under-construction CETP, or a CETP is already proposed, then its capacity and other relevant information be mentioned.
6. If one CETP is found feasible to serve more than one clusters, names of other clusters in the group be mentioned.
